GRANDPARENTS' DAY

Each year, on the first Friday in November, St. Mary's School honors a group of very special people—our students' grandparents. All grandparents are invited to come to school to visit, eat lunch with, and spend time with their grandchildren. Friday, November 2, is the date for 2018.

The theme is: A "Magical" Grandparents Day. The day will begin with a Prayer Service in church at 8:30 am. Grandparents are invited to sit with their grandchildren. After the service, the grandparents may visit the students in their classrooms. This special day will end at 2:00 pm, as our visitors leave (so as to be out of the bus and dismissal traffic).

During the day, there are several options for grandparents. You may come and go as you wish. There will be refreshments and coffee available in the gym throughout the day for the grandparents. A photo opportunity will be set up in the gym as well. On the stage, the Scholastic Book Fair will be open for business.

Grandparents are invited to eat our school lunch that day. The menu will include turkey and gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, dinner roll, fruit cup, milk, crustless pumpkin pie. Reservations are required, so please call the school office at (812)663-2804 by October 26. The cost for an adult lunch is $3.10.

The students brought home invitations on Friday, October 19, which contain more information and lunch times. Please check with your St. Mary's students for the details.

We are looking forward to a magical time with these wonderful people!

Did you know...?

During the week of October 22-26, St. Mary's School will observe "Red Ribbon Week." This annual event is designed to encourage students to make wise choices concerning drugs, alcohol, and risky behavior. The theme of the week for this year is: Your life is a journey—travel drug-free. There are several special events planned. On Monday the Drama Club will present brief skits on making good choices. On Tuesday the students are encouraged to wear an outfit that depicts a job or activity that they are hoping to do on their life journeys. On Friday, each grade level will dress in a specific color to show unity in helping each other to make wise decisions. During the week, teachers will present age-appropriate lessons on the dangers of drugs, and discussing the people we have in our lives who are good role models, and who can help us make the right choices on our life journey.

WEEK FOUR—Canned Fruits & Vegetables for Hot Meals

An old Irish proverb says, "It is in the shelter of each other that the people live." Indeed, we are created to depend upon one another and walk together in suffering. But when family members or friends approach life's end, we may not know how best to "shelter" them. Here are some concrete ways we can compassionately care for them.

1. Invite God In: Pope Francis has said that "praying in difficult situations is like opening the door to the Lord, in order that he might enter." The dying process is a sacred time—a final season to seek closure in this life and prepare for the next in the hope of sharing in Christ's Resurrection. As you enter into this season with your friend or family member, ask God to accompany both of you.
2. Listen: Try to discover your loved one's values and how best to honor his or her wishes. This requires true empathy. It can be hard not to assume he or she wants the same thing you think you would want if you were in the same situation. Listen with a non-judgmental ear so your loved one feels free to speak openly.
3. Inform Yourself: Be aware that wishes for refusing ordinary or proportionate treatment—or for pursuing assisted suicide—are usually rooted in fears of dependency, helplessness, or pain. Make yourself available to discuss these or any concerns. Know that hospice care focuses on alleviating pain and other symptoms, meeting basic needs, and providing comfort. Seek to understand the Catholic Church's teaching on end-of-life care, which can help you provide authentically loving support that respects life.*
4. Be Steadfast in Compassion: As Pope Francis reminds us, "Compassion means 'suffer with.'" Your friend or family member will likely face ups and downs. Recognize these as part of a natural process. Surround him or her with love, support, and companionship that are "anchored in unconditional respect for their human dignity, beginning with respect for the inherent value of their lives." The patient's suffering can be alleviated by your empathy, as well as by quality hospice care by medical personnel.
5. Help Them Achieve Closure: Help your family member or friend define the unfinished personal projects, financial concerns, unresolved relationships, or other matters that occupy his or her mind. Due to changing circumstances, some goals may need to be reframed. Creating and accomplishing this list of unfinished business can help the person discover a sense of purpose and feel more at peace.
6. Provide Opportunities for Resolution: Ira Byock, a hospice medical director, illustrates in his book The 4 Most Important Things** how saying "I love you," "I'm sorry," "I forgive you," and "Thank you" can promote much-needed healing during the dying process. You can help ensure a peaceful transition for your loved one by facilitating opportunities for reconciliation with others and for mutual expressions of love and gratitude. Consider offering to invite a priest to hear his or her confession and to administer the Eucharist as viaticum and the Sacrament of the Anointing of the Sick, all of which heal the soul and prepare us to meet the Lord.
7. Reminisce: Our appetites diminish as our bodies experience a decreased need for food and fluids when we near life's end. Provide smaller amounts of your family member or friend's favorite foods. Even if unable to eat them, he or she may still enjoy the aromas and reminisce with you about special memories they evoke.
8. Provide a Peaceful Presence: There comes a time of natural withdrawal from surroundings when dying persons may lose interest in many activities that used to be enjoyable. Your own quiet, patient presence can provide important support as your loved one prepares emotionally and spiritually for his or her passing. Hearing can become very acute, so placing the phone in another room, playing favorite music, reading a favorite passage, praying together, or simply sitting quietly with him or her can all be very soothing.
9. Show Tenderness: Those who are dying remain in need of the tenderness of personal human contact. Ask if you might gently brush your loved one's hair, apply lotion to her hands or feet, or simply hold his hand. Tell stories, laugh, and share memories to reassure the person he or she is a cherished gift, not a burden in any way.
10. Bear Their Transition Patiently: Transition, the time immediately preceding death, may bring rapid physical changes, such as in breathing patterns, as well as changes in mental or emotional states. Try to be patient, and allow the "how" and "when" of death to be between God and your loved one. Ask God for the wisdom to know what final words to say—if any—and when. As you are able, give your loved one permission to make the transition. For example, you might say, "I love you. It's okay to go home now."

Accompanying a loved one in his or her last days is enormously important work, but we do not need to fear our own limitations. Pope Francis tells us, "[God] comes to assist us in our weakness. And his help consists in helping us accept his presence and closeness to us. Day after day, touched by his compassion, we also can become compassionate towards others."
